Privacy policy

The GIMS website use of software to analyse the number of visitors to its web pages and their behavior. This is based on your IP address (Internet Protocol address). The aim of this is to optimize, as far as possible, the information available and the way in which it is presented. The software does not analyse your identity and is used solely for the purpose outlined above.

GIMS handles the data of the visitors to its website with care. Personal information will only be stored if this serves a reasonable interest. This information is stored securely. In this, GIMS closely complies with the requirements of the Personal Data Protection Act.

Cookies

On its website, GIMS uses what are known as cookies, small files that are stored on your computer, tablet or smartphone. Cookies are used to identify you when you revisit the website and to enable access to specific parts of the GIMS website, as well as for web use analytic purposes.

As a rule, cookies will make your browsing experience better. However, you may prefer to disable cookies on this site and on others. The most effective way to do this is to disable cookies in your browser. We suggest consulting the Help section of your browser for this.

Recording and securing data

GIMS uses security procedures to prevent unauthorised access to the confidential information on the website such as data concerning user numbers and user behaviour.

Intellectual property

GIMS makes every reasonable effort to enter into a written agreement with the legitimate owner of digital text and images on their use. However, this may be impossible in some cases, because one or more of the legitimate owners of the intellectual property or their heirs cannot be traced. If, in your opinion, any text or digital objects published by GIMS on one of the GIMS communication channels represent an infringement of your rights, you can contact gims@g-red.eu. Your e-mail should contain the title of the relevant item, the communication channel and the materials involved. In such cases, GIMS will amend or remove the materials if no other agreement can be reached. A note to this effect will be included in the materials concerned.

This website has been developed for educational and social purposes and not for profit. For this reason, no payment will be made for materials submitted for publication or references on the website. GIMS accepts no liability for the inappropriate use of this website or any damage that may arise as a result of its use.

Copyright

The texts and images on the GIMS website may not be copied or changed or used in any other way, without written permission in advance. The intellectual property rights on the GIMS website (including texts, design, photographs, videos and logos) rest solely with GIMS. Of course, GIMS also respects third-party copyright. If you believe that the information on the GIMS website infringes your rights, please contact the GIMS management group via gims@g-red.eu.
